8. b. Daniel Ellsberg

A detailed file review has revealed no Watergate-related information previously unreported to the Inspector General or other senior officials of this Agency in either the Ellsberg files or collateral records, including the Vietnam War Documents Case (OS #613 293). No new information was developed which in any way would alter previous written statements by the Director of Security to the effect that no personal or technical surveillance was conducted by this Office of either Mr. Ellsberg or of individuals associated with him or his defense. These files were in the custody of the Inspector General from 26 February until 15 April 1974.

8. c. Hank Greenspun

The Office of Security has in its Watergate files press data reflecting that members of the White House "Plumbers" Unit had plans to break into the Las Vegas office of Mr. Hank Greenspun. There is nothing in Office of Security files to reflect that the Agency had any advance knowledge of these plans or that the Agency was in any way involved in the matter.

Office of Security files also contain two 1961 memoranda which mention Mr. Greenspun in connection with a briefing which representatives of the Las Vegas, Nevada office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were given on the OXCART Project. The Federal Bureau of Investigation at that time pointed out that Mr. Greenspun, although he was an active newspaper man, could probably be prevailed upon not to publish what he might learn of Project activities. The Bureau noted that Mr. Greenspun once lost his civil rights for a violation involving running guns to Israel, and implied that he had cooperated with the Bureau in the past. After Headquarters received this information from the field, four press items mentioning Mr. Greenspun were sent to the field for their background information. Those articles are not in Office of Security files.
